CELEBRATING EXCELLENT SPACE SCIENCE TEACHING

Competition Terms and Conditions

1. Individual, groups and/or organisations can submit multiple entries.
2. Entries must be based on using Space Awareness resources.
3. Entries must relate to educational activities (whether formal or informal) involving young people i.e. school-age.

Entries must be created using the entry form provided, and submitted via email to euspaceawe-teachers@eschoolnet.org. Note: within any correspondence please clearly state which national-level contest (see list of National Contest Organisers) you are planning to submit your entry to, so that we can ensure your entry or enquiry reaches the right people.

4. Deadline for submission is midnight on 14 October 2017 (Central European Summer Time). No entries will be accepted after the deadline has closed.
5. Submission is open from any country. If there is no national contest in your home country then you can choose for your entry to be considered within the appropriate language contest, or you can alternatively choose to enter the English-language global contest
6. The international final will be conducted in English. If you are selected as a winner at national level in another language your National Contest

Organiser will help you create an English-language version for consideration at the international final.

7. Submissions will not be returned.
8. Entries must comply with the following criteria:
 - a. Content must be original and not copied, as a whole or partly, from any other source;
 - b. Content must have been created for the competition and not previously published;
 - c. Content must be truthful;
 - d. Content must not violate the rights of any third party;
 - e. Content must not be inappropriate or unfit for publication (e.g., include nudity, obscenity or hate speech);
 - f. It is your responsibility to obtain any necessary permission to include photographs, e.g. parental/guardian permission in the case of young people.
9. By submitting your entry you agree that:
 - a. The Space Awareness team can use the material contained within your entry, e.g. to contact you about the competition, promote the Space Awareness resources or to conduct further analysis on the impacts of the programme.
 - b. Content from entries may be displayed on the Space Awareness website, on social media and/or compiled into an e-book. Credit will be attributed using the information provided in the "Entrant details" section of the entry form (Q2).
 - c. The submitted content follows a Creative Commons License of Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0 International (CC BY-NC-SA 4.0). Details of this license can be found at: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>
10. Winners will be initially notified via email. They may also be invited to participate in further follow-up work, for example a discussion or interview with members of the Space Awareness team, or a public webinar.
11. Competition conditions:
 - a. The judges' decisions are final;

- b. By entering the competition those who are named on the entry form are giving permission for their name(s) to be used to disseminate the results and in subsequent publications relating to the subject of the competition.
- c. Ensuring accuracy of attribution is the responsibility of the named person(s) on the entry form.
- d. The person(s) named on the form are responsible for keeping a backup of the submission.
- e. In case of problems the competition organisers reserve the right to modify the previous conditions.

12. Eligibility of Space Awareness related individuals and organisations:

- a. Representatives from organisations who are official partners (members of the management group) within the Space Awareness project are not eligible to apply.
- b. Educators from dissemination nodes (both formal and informal) and other related organisations who have an association with the Space Awareness (or Space Scoop) project can enter the global contest. The global contest is the English language contest organised by University College London (UCL). Two winners from the global contest will go forward into the International Final. Such participants are not eligible for their own national competition due to potential conflict of interest.

EU Space Awareness is funded by the European Union within the Horizon 2020 Framework Programme, H2020 – COMPET – 2014 under the Grant Agreement 638653.
